One just cannot stress enough on the importance of SECURITY and SAFETY aspects in public developments like shopping centres and high rise buildings (including office towers, condominiums, hotels, mixed developments etc.). In today's environment, there is definitely a significant need to become more aware of the security and safety issues and building owners and managers need to employ competent staff to ensure their patrons' security and safety at all times.

SECURITY GUARDS are very often the first people patrons come into contact with on any incidents which happen in the car parks or buildings, so it is all the more important for the security staff you employ to be trained to respond appropriately.

PPK Malaysia has taken the proactive role to organize the above training course in view of the situation where building owners and managers employ both in-house and contract security personnel and may lack facilities or logistics for the training of security personnel.
